

The confidence of choosing Summerset

Summerset is a business that was founded on care.

It was the vision of our founder, John O'Sullivan, to create a retirement community that our own parents would be happy to call home. A place that puts the respect for its residents at the heart of everything it does.

This philosophy continues to guide us today.

Summerset opened its first retirement village in Wanganui in 1997. Since then we've grown to become one of the country's largest and most respected operators in the retirement village and aged care sector.

We have retirement villages around the country, offering fully independent living and a variety of care options. Over 5,000 New Zealanders have chosen to call our retirement villages home, and we think that's pretty special.

Continuum of Care

Our villages are designed so that as your needs change you can access different levels of support.

While you live independently in a Summerset villa or townhouse, we can provide help with cleaning, meals and some aspects of personal care.

Should you need nursing care, there's no need to move from the village. We can provide rest home level care in our serviced apartments and hospital level care in our care centre.

Our Casebrook and Avonhead villages will also have our award winning memory care centres.

Three villages Christchurch wide

If you're looking for extra care and support for yourself, a family member or friend, you can be confident that a home in a Summerset village may well be the right choice.

Memory care centre*

Summerset is one of the country's leaders in world class memory care.

Our industry-leading memory care centre's design is based on world class dementia living, including information from Stirling University in Scotland. The university is renowned as an international centre of knowledge and expertise dedicated to improving the lives of people with dementia, and a world leader in dementia care design.

Secure homely environment

Summerset's memory care centres are specially designed to provide a homely and safe environment for people needing rest home level dementia care, at risk of wandering. Our unique way finding, large open communal areas and outdoor courtyard garden provides freedom of movement and independence.

Our generous apartments offer open plan living in a secure facility, with a separate double bedroom and large ensuite. Giving residents plenty of space to furnish their home as they would like.
